The First Trade Secret of Professional Bloggers

The biggest secret that all successful bloggers use is, research! This small and sometimes obvious secret is used by only the most successful bloggers. The trick is to research the most popular blogs and copy the same techniques and trends that they are practicing.

The bloggers that are making thousands of dollars are making the money because they have a lot of traffic, because they are popular. The fastest way to become popular is to position your blog exactly like the successful bloggers.

You don't need to steal anything from the big blogs only analyze everything about their blog and use the same techniques on your blog. Notice the layout, ad placement and how they are selling products.

Are they using plugins that you are not using? The idea is find the smallest details and implement them onto your blog. If your blog is falling behind on the latest trends that big blogs are setting, you won't be considered as popular to readers.

Once your blog looks, feel and reads like the big blogs, readers will associate your blog with the professional blogs and your blog will convert higher.

The Second Trade Secret of Professional Bloggers

All successful blogs have one thing in common, they ALL are positioned experts on their chosen niche, and all of them are connected to the other successful blogs.

Your blog needs to be recognized by the successful blogs in your chosen niche and readers need to associate your blog with the other big blogs. Positioning your blog is a lot easier than most bloggers think.

The first step is be apart of the bigger blogs! Comment on their posts and actively engage in discussion to provide help answers to readers. In your comments leave a link back to your website when appropriate, when you are not providing helpful answers leave your URL out of the comment.

The second step is to blog about the same topics that are popular in the other big blogs. Link back to the post about the same topic. This is the best way to be recognized on search engines when people are searching for the other posts.

When you are actively participating in the blog community with successful blogs that are on the same niche as you, your blog will sky rocket to the top and you'll gain a lot of attention.

The Third Trade Secret of Professional Bloggers

This third secret is only known by a few bloggers who have just started a blog and need a quick boost to making your blog more active. It's a little known secret that readers will comment on your blog posts when a discussion is already in place.

Readers will not gain a good impression and post comments if there are no comments or activity going on in the blog. The trick is to get some instant activity so new readers can comfortably add their comments and link to your blog.

If your blog is not receiving much activity, it's time you implement this secret that only a few bloggers know. The secret is to get paid comments for the first blog posts. This is practiced in forums by webmasters and it's just as effective with blogs.

When you write your post, add your own comment by signing out and you'll be the first start the discussion. The next step is to hire some people to add to your discussion. You can pay very cheap for quality comments to get the discussion going.

It's important to only pay for the first few comments and then let your traffic take care of the rest. Once your blog has been active for a while you will not need to pay for comments on your new blog posts as you'll have a following of readers who will do that for you.

The Forth Trade Secret of Professional Bloggers

The final trade secret is actually common sense! All professional bloggers know the search engine power of the URL but it's rarely actually talked about. Your domain name and the URL increase your search engine ranking 10x with simple one time change to your blog.

Your domain name should have 2 - 3 keywords about your chosen niche. For example, if your blog is about "real estate" your domain name should include those keywords:

The second step to implement this trade secret is to optimize all your blog posts. For example, you've recently added a blog post about luxury homes. The URL for that post should be optimized with your keywords:

Popular Search Engines all crawl through your website and find all the links and indexes them, the more links they find with your targeted keywords the higher you rank.

To easiest way to optimize the URL is to use Wordpress. Once you have Wordpress set up, go to your admin dashboard and then find the Permalink Section and add this code:

`/%postname%.htm`
