>> What is Hubpages.com?

The Hubpages team was founded by three guys out of Microsoft that were part of the successful startup MongoMusic. The team includes Paul Edmondson, Jay Reitz, and Paul Deeds.

Many of you may have heard of Squidoo which is a competitor of Hubpages. Basically both of them are a free-hosted community of content producers. Both Squidoo and Hubpages can be grouped into the Web 2.0 movement where user generated content rules.

Both Squidoo and Hubpages SHARE REVENUE with their content creators (YOU). In my experience the revenue numbers are still low, but the opportunity is growing. (But as you will see throughout this report, there are MANY other reasons to focus on Hubpages vs. just the revenue sharing . . .)

One of Hubpages differences is in how they share profits with the producers of the content on this free hosting / Web 2.0 platform:

“ Hubpages purpose is to provide easy-to-use tools and traffic to help anyone to produce content and monetize their knowledge by creating webpages. There will be monetization programs to choose from consisting of products, advertisements and lead generation tools that each person can easily incorporate into their pages. Hubpages will split revenue with the content creator. The pages are organized in the Hubpages website based on algorithmic quality index that promotes the best pages throughout the hierarchy (based on tags) of the website. Each author will earn a reputation score called a HubScore that can be referenced to meter the quality of the content by an author. ”

Hubpages will be positioned to take advantage of the significant numbers of new web content providers that want to supplement their income through content like many people do on eBay by selling goods.

The Hubpage Version

“ Squidoo: We divide up the money we receive in a very public way. First, we pay our bills. That's direct out of pocket expenses like rent and servers and salary and benefits expenses (our CEO doesn't take a salary, and neither does our board of directors). Then, with no other deductions, we pay 5% of our post-expense revenue directly to the charity pool, 50% directly to our lensmasters and retain the rest to pay off investors and employees. ”

Squidoo's Version

So, other than the obvious revenue sharing, is there any other reason to consider using Hubpages? YES! As Hubpages is starting to be considered an AUTHORITY by Google! By comparison, Squidoo also has a similar 'authority' status on Google though there have been some recent changes in Squidoo 'lens' rankings and a Squidoo Slap (Link).

So what does this mean? Google (and Yahoo and MSN) are ranking 'hubs' that are created on Hubpages for some competitive terms (money phrases)!

Developing content on Hubpages should become an important part of your overall web marketing / promotional strategies. In addition to your actual 'hubs' ranking on the various search engines, you can link directly to your other websites! And guess what These backlinks are being 'counted' (as you will see later in this report). So Hubpages can help you strengthen your entire marketing presence and 'network of sites'.

OK, so now you know what Hubpages is all about so what will this report teach you?

- If you have not worked with Hubpages in the past, this report has a detailed step by step guide to setting up and launching your first 'hub'.
- If you are a more experienced 'hubber', this report will show you several features and marketing tricks that you (and your competitors) are probably not aware of.
- You can use this step by step guide to help train your outsourcers / freelancers as Hubpages are easy to outsource!

So read this report then go run and build a 'hub'. Just reading this report will NOT increase your web traffic or make you any money you need to take ACTION. Web 2.0 properties such as Hubpages and Squidoo have become an important part of my overall traffic strategy and work well in any niche market! Remember your competitors are most likely NOT on Hubpages so it is still a 'land grab'.

Click EDIT above to add content to this empty capsule.

This is pretty straight forward, you should add a nice text description of your hub and you can add a photo / image by clicking the EDIT buttons for the respective capsules above.

Notes on photo / images:

- I find that adding an image helps 'draw clicks' to your profile and 'hubs'. You do not have to use a photo of yourself you can use an image related to your niche / topic)
- Another note on the above 'profile photo', use an image that is 400 x 241 or Hubpages will resize it on their end.

There are several Content Capsules as noted below:

And in addition to sharing in the AdSense revenue on your hub you can also add Revenue Capsules and add your Amazon and Ebay affiliate accounts for further monetization via your hub.

How to add video to your hubpage

The Content Capsules noted above are all easy to use. I found the Video capsule to be a bit confusing, so here is the detail:

Click on the menu item << Video

When you click on the <<Video link you'll noticed a red status flashing in your browser:

↓ Added capsule below

Once you see that you can then scroll down and should notice a new capsule added for you to hit the EDIT button right below the Comments Capsule.

Here's a view of the box you'll need to fill in for adding videos:

The screenshot shows a 'Video Capsule' settings window. At the top, there are buttons for 'SAVE' and 'DISCARD CHANGES', along with navigation arrows and a close button. Below the title bar, there is a 'Capsule Subtitle:' text box. To the right of this is a checkbox labeled 'Don't display this capsule:'. Below these are two tabs: 'Video Settings' (selected) and 'Help'. The 'Video Settings' tab contains a 'Video URL or ID' text box, a 'Preview Video' button, and a note 'We support YouTube and Google Video'. At the bottom, there are labels for 'Video Key:' and 'Video Type: YouTube'.

Capsule Subtitle: you want to think about including your keywords here . . .

Video URL is just grabbing the link from Youtube or Google video and pasting it in...simple stuff.

Then hit the Preview Video button and then Save , that's it.

>> About Hubpage Groups

Groups within Hubpages aren't like Yahoo Groups (and are NOT the same as Squidoo Groups) but rather something for you to interlink a few of your Hubpages together with other relevant pages (hubs) that you've created.

Help

Hub Groups allow you to connect related articles together so that your readers can easily navigate between them. The group navigation will appear at the very bottom of the Hub, once you have added at least 2 hubs to a group. Hubs will be added at the end of the group list when assigned to a new group. You can manage all your hub groups (opens in a new window) or from your my account page.

Here's what Hub Groups are straight Hubpages.com site:

What are Hub Groups?

As write more Hubs, you'll eventually want to organize them so your reader can easily navigate through all your work. Hub Groups is the tool that can help you organize your Hubs and make navigation easy.

Start by creating a group that includes Hubs that share a common trait. Follow the steps below to make your group.

- Add New Group: To create a group, click on "Add New Group" button and name the group. You can choose if you want the name to appear on the drop-down box.
- Edit Hub Group: Click "Edit" and you can rename the group, or change its appearance status on the drop-down box.
- Delete Hub Groups: Click "Delete" to remove the group. This will not delete any Hubs that are part of the group. They will automatically be moved to the "Orphan Hubs" group that appears at the bottom of the page. (See example at left.)

After you've finished, a box will be displayed on the page of any Hub that is part of groups. Inside the box is the title of the Hub you're currently at, followed by an arrow. By clicking on the area, you can see all the related Hubs in the group. You have the option of including a name for the Group that appears in the box.

>> Tagging and Hubpages

Tagging is an important part of Web2.0! Hubpages allows you to 'tag' each hub that you create and I strongly suggest that you include them. You will see many competitive hubs that are not using tags so this can be an advantage for you . . .

Here is another SECRET to why tags are so important. Did you know that Google INDEXES and RANKS tag pages?

Google when I last checked has 109,000 tag pages indexed . . .

<http://www.google.com/search?q=site%3Ahubpages.com%2Ftag>

Selecting tags is very similar to keyword research. You should include plurals, related terms and here is a SECRET TIP . . .

Misspellings!

Yes misspellings can rank nicely using Web 2.0 properties and tag pages including Hubpages.com! (this one tip should be worth the price of the report, as I do not see this being utilized to its full potential)

So how do you 'tag' your hubpage? Simple, you just create your hub and some of the tags are auto generated based on the title and words you use to describe your hub. After that you'll notice a menu on the right side where you can add more tags or delete ones that were auto tagged that you do not feel are relevant. Tags are IMPORTANT do not forget them!

Once you've added all of the content and images to your hubpage then it's time to grab it's RSS feed and ping it! This is an IMPORTANT step that all of your competitors are missing! Did you think that you can only ping blogs? (guess what you can ping anything with a RSS feed!) Did you know that Hubpages even had a RSS Feed? Well it does and you need to ping it!

>> How Will My Hubpages Rank?

Now that is the MOST IMPORTANT question when approaching any Web 2.0 property...
Here are some examples of search engine traction:

Google is nicely indexing Hubpages when I checked there were:
289,000 pages indexed on Google.

The screenshot shows a Google search interface. The search bar contains the text "site:hubpages.com". To the right of the search bar are links for "Advanced Search" and "Preferences". Below the search bar, a red link says "New! View and manage". The search results are displayed in a table with a header row. The first row shows "Web" on the left and "Results 1 - 10 of about 289,000 from hubpages.com." on the right. Below the header, there are three search results, each with a title, a description, and a link to the page.

Web	Results 1 - 10 of about 289,000 from hubpages.com.

A Great Family Project

While this craft was quite popular in the 70's, it has died out for the most part. I still like to do it once in a while, because it's a lot of fun and results are different every time. It really is a one-of-a-kind gift. And if you hate to waste things, you'll enjoy recycling your candles. Melt the used candles in a double boiler, and use a wire strainer to get rid of old wicks, pieces of matches and other debris. You can combine used wax with new wax. Keep in mind that you'll get color variations just like with mixed paint or dyes. In other words, if you melt a red candle and an yellow candle in the same batch you are going to get orange wax. If you throw a bunch of colors into the same pot you are going to get an icky brown.

I hope you enjoy this project. Kids can do this with adult supervision. Remember hot wax can burn, so you'll need to help them with the tricky parts. Never get the wax too hot because it can burst into flames. Just get it hot enough to melt.

It's no more dangerous than baking cookies though, so let the kids do the parts they can do.

What you need

Here is a supply list of things you'll need to make a sand candle. If you make candles already, you'll have most of these things on hand.

>> Improving Your Hub Score

What is it anyways?

(from Hubpages.com)

What's a HubScore?

We use this to determine the quality of individual Hubs, much like Google ranks popular pages. Many factors contribute to our rating scale of 0 to 100, with 100 being our top score. A HubScore is used to determine your Status.

How is HubScore computed?

HubScore takes into account a number of factors, and will vary quite a bit from the time a Hub is published as data about its performance continues to stream in. The most important HubScore components that you should be concerned with include:

- Amount of traffic, including percentage from sources other than HubPages
- The length of the Hub (the more unique writing, generally, the better)
- The uniqueness of content (copying content already available on the Web will be penalized)
- The number of thumbs-up votes from unique users
- The overall quality of the Hubber (author HubScore and Status)

We reserve the right to change the factors used to assess a Hub's HubScore as we continue to determine those that measure a great Hub.

The bottom line is if you write original, useful content, your HubScores will reflect the quality and work you've put into them.

>> Tips To Improving Your Hub Score

- * Create keyword rich content. You don't have to overdue it. Include other related terms / synonyms in your text. Mix in bold / italics / outbound links (with anchor text).
- * Try to use original content, or if you are using PLR (private label rights) content it is always a good idea to modify it.
- * Update your content often and on a consistent schedule. This is a critical step not only do search engines love freshly updated content so does Hubpages! (this is also important on Squidoo).
- * Generate traffic and backlinks to your hubpage by PROMOTING it. Link to it from other blogs, forums, directories, etc...as you would with a traditional website. Promoting your hubpage can also be cheaply outsourced if you prefer.
- * Get your friends and/or outsource employees to assist you in 'thumbs upping' your hub. But really if you focus on putting out great quality content this should come naturally. You can give it a hand initially though. :)
- * Increase your status as a hubber by creating a dozen or more hubs. Don't go overboard as you will be looked at as a spammer if your hub creation goes too high in one account. 20-50 would be plenty. Hubpages even calls this out in their FAQ!
Hmm, no one said you can't create another main Hubpages account and start again . . . . .

>> Summary

- Authority Domains with Web 2.0 user generated content, such as Hubpages, are getting noticed by the search engines including Google!
  - * Hubpages has built-in traffic (its own user base) and can also help provide search engine traction.
  - * You can use Hubpages to build backlinks to your main money making website or network of sites.
