
“100 Feedback In Only 7 Days”

by Neel Johnson

Revised and expanded upon by M. Da Vela

When starting out on eBay® your feedback score (or lack of it), can limit your ability to buy and sell on eBay®.

How?

Your feedback score represents the number of eBay® members that are satisfied with the transaction that has taken place between you and the other party. So, it stands to reason, that the higher your feedback score, the more comfortable someone will be when they look into doing business with you.

But that's not the only reason.

In order to list a “Dutch” auction you need a feedback score of at least 30. If you want to list an item as a “Featured Plus” listing you'll need a feedback of 10 or more.

I have no doubt that you can see the importance of getting some quick feedback. And I'm going to share a simple yet highly effective secret with you, it will get you there in no time at all.

This simple method of getting enough feedback falls within all of eBay's® rules. How? Here's how...

Step 1: Find The Ultra Cheap

Look on eBay® for items which cost you next to nothing. You can use the eBay® search feature to find items which cost anywhere from $0.01 to $1.00. It is up to you how much you invest in your 100 feedback score!

Click on search, then on Stores, and then type in “free shipping” without the “” and then push the search button. You’ll be surprised at all the low priced items that you’ll find.

Step 2: Buy The Ultra Cheap

Now bid on 100 items. If you want to speed things up a bit, try and find auctions with the “Buy It Now” option. If the seller offers PayPal® as a form of payment, go right away and pay for the item.

Step 3: Communicate

Next send a follow up email to the seller thanking them for the auction, point out that you paid in a quick manor, and kindly ask them to leave positive feedback for your prompt payment.

This method does cost you a few dollars depending on the cost of the items you buy ($0.01-$1.00), but if you're planning on doing business on eBay®, this method will get you up a running fast.

After getting your trustworthy feedback score, selling will be easier for you! And why stop at 100?

Good items to buy usually are.. eBooks =)
They're cheap, you'll get the item quickly, no shipping costs!

CAUTION!:

Make sure you buy from 100 DIFFERENT sellers.
If you were to purchase 100 different items from the same seller, and they gave you feedback on all 100 items, your feedback score would still only be 1!

SELLING FOR FEEDBACK

You could also buy an ebook with resell rights, and put it up for sale starting at $0.01-$0.15. For every person that buys an ebook from you, you can get positive feedback! Don't expect to earn any money with this method because the fee you pay to eBay and PayPal usually leaves you with $0.00-$0.01 per transaction. Hence you do this for feedback only. You could also sell public domain (copyright-free) digital wallpapers instead. You can find those on wallpaper websites for free. People who buy from you usually do this to gain positive feedback, too. When you put up for sale around 15 items every day you'll be at 100 feedbackscore before the end of your week!

IMPORTANT! ALWAYS BE QUICK TO REPLY TO MESSAGES FROM YOUR CUSTOMERS, STAY POLITE NO MATTER WHAT, GIVE POSITIVE FEEDBACK QUICKLY AND ASK THEM TO RETURN THE FAVOR (you'd appreciate it).

You are now armed with valuable information that will help you take your eBay® business to the next level.
