

An E-Book of Vedic Astrology by “A Study of Astrology”

This E-book was published with much research and study. This work contains a compilation of information relating to the 27 Sidereal Nakshatra's and information pertaining to their depth and meaning.

What are Nakshatra's?

Nakshatra's are 27 sections of the celestial sky that are located above the common 12 zodiac constellations in astrology. They are also referred to as Lunar Mansions from historical texts. These sections of the sky are called "Nakshatras" and compose of equal areas of 13.20 degrees each that embody the entirety of the 360 degree zodiac. Each Nakshatra is composed of a number of fixed stars that power and give meaning to that section of the sky and add a deeper layer of translation in astrology.

Every Nakshatra itself has a symbol associated with it, a ruling deity as well as a planet affiliated with ruling it. The Sun, Moon and Ascendant are most important points in the Nakshatra. That said Vedic Astrology gives most importance to the Nakshatra of the Moon. Read each Nakshatra of the Moon sign pertaining to a chart of interest to learn the depth of how a personality manifests in this e-book.

The Pada's of Nakshatra's

To further understand the manifestation of a planet in a Nakshatra one must study the pada it is contained within. The pada itself is simply a 3.20 degree division of each Nakshatra that represents a divided section of the Nakshatra into 1/4 divination. The purpose of these pada's are seen in the D9 Chart separate from the birth chart which will be explained below.

In the D-9 Divisional Chart the Pada will show the planet moving into a new sign and house different from what the birth chart shows. The purpose of the planet changing signs and houses relates to what the D-9 Chart itself represents; spiritual growth. The pada of the planet changing will show how the planet is maturing as the chart holder grows older. Basically the pada of a planet in a Nakshatra shows the true expression of the planet later in life in the D9 Chart. A basic and easy way to sum it up is to Load a D-9 Chart and that chart will be projection of how life is lived after maturity is achieved.
